Identifiers-*Modern Literary Arabic

A computerized word count is presented of 11 elementary Modern Literary Arabic textbooks used in the United States. The word count was started in 1967 to provide a practical vocabulary base for a fully-programmed self-instructional course on the phonology and script of Modern Literary Arabic. The first part of the count is a cumulative list (compiled with the aid of an IBM 360/20 computer and an IBM card sorter) arranged alphabetically by Arabic root, according to conventional dictionary practice, of all the words listed in the 11 Arabic texts, with their English meanings, the sources for each word are given. The number of different textbooks in which the word occurs is indicated, as well as its frequency in the Landau word count (1959). Plurals are listed separately but following the singulars, and the imperfect tense of the verb is likewise listed following the perfect, if both occur. Homonyms having distinct plurals are listed as separate items. The second part of the word count consists of alphabetical list of the words occurring in all 11 textbooks, in 10 of them, in 9, and so on. A list of the 11 textbooks covered in the count is also included. (DO)

A computerized word count is presented of 11 elementary modern literary Arabic (MLA) textbooks used in the United States.

A computerized word count is presented of 11 elementary Modern Literary Arabic (MLA) textbooks used in the United States. The word count was started in 1967 to provide a practical vocabulary base for a fully-programmed self-instructional course on the phonology and script of MLA.

The count is in two parts:

1. A cumulative list² arranged alphabetically by Arabic root, according to conventional dictionary practice, of all the words listed in the 11 Arabic textbooks, with their English meanings; the sources for each word are given. The frequency of the word (i.e., the number of different textbooks in which it occurs) is indicated, as well as its frequency in the Landau word count (1959). Plurals are listed separately but following the singulars, and the imperfect tense of the verb is likewise listed following the perfect, if both occur. Homonyms having distinct plurals are listed as separate items.

2. Alphabetical lists of the words occurring in all 11 textbooks, in 10 of them, in 9, and so on. This word count should be of interest to both teachers of Arabic and textbook writers.

The 11 textbooks that served as the basis for this study are:

1. Abdo, D. A. A course in modern standard Arabic. Beirut: Khayat's, 1962.
2. Bishai, W. B. Modern literary Arabic. Vol. I. Baltimore, Maryland: School of Advanced International Studies, John Hopkins University, 1962.
3. Modern standard Arabic, Basic course. Vol. I. Presidio of Monterey, California: Defense Language Institute, 1965.
4. Ferguson, C. A., & Ani, M. Lessons in contemporary Arabic. Lessons 1-8. Washington, D. C.: Center for Applied Linguistics of the Modern Language Association of America, 1960.

5. Hanna, S. A. An elementary manual of contemporary literary Arabic. Boulder, Colorado: Pruett Press, 1964.
6. Kapliwatzky, J. Arabic language and grammar. Vol. I. Jerusalem: J. Weinfeild Press, 1940.
7. McCarus, E. N., & Rammuny, R. M. First level Arabic: Elementary literary Arabic for secondary schools. Ann Arbor: The University of Michigan Press, 1964.
8. McCarus, E. N., & Yacoub, A. I. Elements of contemporary Arabic. Ann Arbor: Campus Publishers, 1962.
9. McCarus, E. N., & Yacoub, A. I. Contemporary Arabic readers, Vol. I. Newspaper Arabic. Ann Arbor: The University of Michigan Press, 1962.
10. The Middle East Center for Arab Studies. A selected word list of modern literary Arabic. Beirut: Khayats, 1965. (First 5 sections)
